

To the few with whom Mr. Gaynor talked he did not discuss politics.

Exceptional Honors.
The lead of the Lord Mayor of Liverpool in doing exceptional honors to Mayor Gaynor has been followed generally throughout Liverpool. Flashes on the Town Hall and other public buildings and private buildings were lowered to half-mast to-day.

The Cunard Line to-night detailed the superintendent of the port, Captain Dodd, to take charge of the reception of the body of Mayor Gaynor on board the Lusitania to-morrow.

Rufus Gaynor and the nurse who accompanied Mayor Gaynor will return to New York with the body.

JEROME SCHEMES, AND THAW PLANS TO OBTAIN THEM

In a very pretty riot! Indeed, there will be and I do not believe we shall come out second best. We depicted all this talk of strong-arm squads, but it will be best for Lanyon, Jerome, Kennedy and every one else to keep their hands off this white he is under the protection of New Hampshire's courts.

Fearful of a possible kidnapping, both sides are watching each other closely. Besides the Cookville vigilance committee, this little town fairly swarms with detectives. Jerome frankly states that he fears the Thaw people will attempt to take the prisoner either to Maine, back to Canada or to the New Hampshire sea coast. Jerome has indication of his watchfulness this afternoon. Ex-Governor Stone, who arrived this morning, held consultation with Thaw and then asked that he be allowed to go for an automobile spin to Dixville Notch with Mr. Grossman and himself and a guard.

Jerome refused brusquely to give his consent. He explained that the road through the Notch, which is a wild and picturesque spot twelve miles away, leads directly to the State of Maine.

Thaw said to-day that he would not escape if he could. He made the remarkable statement that two separate proposals have been made to him. "I will not state who were the persons who sent messages to me," said Thaw, in his detention room at the Monadnock House. "But they proposed that I step into one of their waiting automobiles and be whisked to safety in whatever direction I chose to go. But I do not wish to escape. I had ample opportunity Wednesday, when I had machine and free guns in every direction. I pondered the matter deeply at that time, and, though it was a temptation, I definitely decided that I would allow the people of New Hampshire to decide my case."

Governor Feltner's action to-day in permitting my attorneys to be heard before he signs the executive warrant has justified my decision. I do not believe I shall ever go back to Mattewan, but if I do I have evolved a scheme by which I hope to force New York State to release me to Pennsylvania. It was the duty of New York State when I had been freed of the charge against me and adjudged innocent to return me to my native State, and if I ever go back to New York I believe that New York State can be forced to do this."

Inspector Faurot of the detective bureau, said to-night that the case would undoubtedly be cleared up to-morrow.

When she disappeared, Miss Day wore a light, cream-colored dress, with blue stripes and topped with black velvet. Her stockings were black, and she also wore low black shoes. She wore upon the left breast a woman's gold hunting-case watch, and carried a small black bag.

A distinguishing mark upon the left arm near the elbow is a chocolate-colored birthmark, smaller than the one upon the back, which led to her positive identification.

Father Is Dead.
The father of the family is dead. He was an Englishman, while the mother was an Italian. The murdered girl was striking in appearance, and displayed characteristics of resemblance to her mother and the Italian parentage.

Besides Francis B. Day, the brother, whose persistent detective work resulted in the identification, there are two sisters and one brother. The sisters, who are older than the murdered girl, are the Misses Emma and Mary Day. The brother, a youth, is Salvatore Day.

It was at the country home of her sister, Mrs. Emma Scutaro, wife of a physician with an office at 541 Henry Street, this city, that Miss Day was last seen by the members of her family. She left the Scutaro home on the morning of August 7, to return to this city, where she had been employed as an embroiderer in a lace house.

Francis Day said to-night:

"My sister was brutally murdered, and that the police will now solve the crime."

Aged Negro Falls Dead.
Henry Latin, an aged negro, employed by the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, who lived on the Bowling Green Road, fell dead last night shortly before 12 o'clock in the Main Street Station. Coroner Taylor directed that the body be turned over to an undertaker, and he will make an examination to-day to ascertain the cause of death.

Body Identified AS ANNE REAY BY HER BROTHER

scores of detectives were sent scurrying on the trail of a certain Italian doctor, whose practice has been chiefly with cases involving illegal operations.

Day was twenty-three years old and a beautiful girl. On August 5 last she was taken to Tarrytown by her mother, Mrs. Marietta Day, and was to have obtained employment there. She disappeared from Tarrytown on August 7, when she was with her brother, Francis, who is a real estate agent, with an office at 102 Broad Street, has been quietly conducting a search for her. A description of the murdered woman's remains convinced him that she was his sister. He immediately communicated with the police, and gave them a mass of information upon which they are now working with a view to making her case a solved one.

Inspector Faurot of the detective bureau, said to-night that the case would undoubtedly be cleared up to-morrow.

TRIAL OF CARAVO IN GUARDED BUNKERS

to the demand of the United States that the slayer of Hayes and Thomas be arrested and punished. Huerta was reminded of his promise two nights ago, and the news to-day is that Huerta has instructed the commander of the Federal forces at Juarez that Captain Caravo be arrested.

To Be Held Near Border.
The trial of Captain Caravo is looked upon now by the department as one of great consequence, because it is to be held near the border, and the United States, which has been urged by the relatives of Hayes and others to proceed, will have no difficulty in presenting all the evidence which the case demands. It is likely that the trial, at Juarez, will attend the trial. He is also expected to report promptly the status of the Odel case.

Officials are awaiting with intense interest what Huerta may make in his message and speech to the Mexican Congress, which meets on September 16, next Tuesday. As the trial of Huerta has not been disclosed, all the officials here have closed, at least, taken a vacation until the day that Huerta will make his full reply in his speech to the United States.

How to Cure Situation.
The State Department to-day was advised that there is on the way to it a communication from Governor Huerta, of Sonora, telling the President that he has been asked for advice on how to cure the situation in Mexico. The Governor makes bold to say that in all fairness the Carranzists should be allowed to get arms. The State Department, however, does not intend to supply arms to Huerta, but will prevent him from getting all the arms and munitions he wants, and that instead of being a neutrality proclamation, it seriously hurts the $8,000,000, which Carranza claims, are in the field and will submit to no armistice.

Emergency Appropriation.
Washington, September 12.—In response to an urgent demand from the House of Representatives, the House to-night passed a joint resolution authorizing an emergency appropriation of $100,000 to be used for the relief of destitute Americans in Mexico, and for their transportation to the United States.

Majority Leader Underwood presented the emergency resolution, and read a letter from Secretary Bryan asking immediate action. The secretary said the department was using $2,000 a day to aid Americans in Mexico, and that $12,000 was available for the purpose. Huerta's report, which will be passed Monday by the Senate.

Secretary Bryan wrote Mr. Underwood: "In view of the fact that the department is still pending in the Committee on Appropriations, the Senate and will not become a law until after the available appropriations have been exhausted, it is essential that there should be placed at the disposal of the department at once a sufficient sum to enable it to carry on the work of relief and prevent the hardship and dissatisfaction that a discontinuance of that work would entail. Besides, the obligations resting on this government under existing conditions, of effecting a safe and speedy return of the Americans who may leave Mexico and reach their homes in the United States, there are political reasons which render it of the highest importance that the work which is being carried on here should not be brought to a sudden stop."

The resolution passed unanimously with the understanding that if further funds were needed, the $100,000 appropriation in the urgent deficiency bill for the same purpose would be allowed to stand.

Not Forced on Foreigners.
Washington, September 12.—Consul Simpkins at El Estero, reported to the State Department that none of the flat money issued by the Governor of Sonora had been forced upon foreigners, and the circulation of the 200,000 peso bills already issued had been suspended until after September 16. The consul says a total of 2,000,000 pesos in ten series of 200,000 pesos each is contemplated.

The arrival of Dr. Ryan at Torreon with medical and other supplies was reported to the department, and conditions there are said not to be so bad as indicated. Several Americans have been imprisoned and subsequently released.

Rosales Leaves Vera Cruz.
Vera Cruz, September 12.—On board the Ward Line steamer Mexico, which sailed yesterday for Tampico, Havana, and New York was the Constitutional Governor of the State of Hidalgo, Victor Rosales. He had been summoned to Mexico City, and told to go for leave of absence, in order that he might be substituted by a military Governor. He said he expected to be in Vera Cruz for some time, but he had been legally elected to office, and asked time to think over the proposition made to him. He is one of the richest men in his state. Rosales has come to Vera Cruz from the capital and taken passage on the steamer did not become known until to-day. While here he told an intimate friend he was a devoted friend of Carranza, and he was forced into the rebel ranks. He also said that the Mexican government in his opinion would be financially embarrassed as soon as the recent 12,000,000 peso loan is exhausted.

Pordes Mangel, a member of the Chamber of Deputies, who was reported to have been killed by Federal soldiers last month near Atzacatlan, is waiting an opportunity to escape to Havana.

Mangel was a warm personal friend of the late President Madero.

Pessimistic Information.
Vera Cruz, September 12.—The passage through this port, under the eyes of the authorities, of men of prominent who intend to join the rebels, to join the rebels; the increased activity of the rebels in Southern Vera Cruz and Campeche; the discovery of plots in Vera Cruz and rumors of plots, together with news of the death of President Huerta's Cabinet, which have resulted in resignations, are developments in the Mexican situation which neither reassured John Lind, President Wilson's personal representative, that there has been improvement in the general situation.

Mr. Lind to-day had two long conversations with men who are supposed to be well-informed, but their information was of the usual pessimistic character.

Mr. Lind is keenly interested in the efforts of President Huerta to obtain the local bank capital of 10,000,000 pesos. No definite statement has been received here that his efforts have been successful.

HARDWICK ISSUES EXPRESSIVE LEAVE OF ABSENCE FOR DETECTIVES

people have been called upon to deal. The money, which was shipped by the Chase National Bank of New York to the Savannah Bank and Trust Company, was placed under lock and seal in a portable safe in the office of the Adams Express Company, on Broadway, New York, and hauled to Jersey City, where it was placed aboard the through express car.

Hard to Understand.
When the safe reached Savannah it was found to be unbroken, but when the contents were brought forth the money was not there. Express company officials said yesterday this was one phase of the case which they beyond their understanding. The key to the safe is always sent in the car under a separate seal, the report here being that the key was found intact, the seal unbroken. The only explanation to be offered, if the money really left New York, is that a skeleton key was used, and in some inexplicable manner a duplicate seal was put on the safe after it had been robbed.

The car in which the money was being transported arrived in Richmond early Tuesday morning on Atlantic Coast No. 59. From New York to Washington the train was handled by the Pennsylvania Railroad, and by the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Railroad from Washington to Richmond. The safe was unloaded through from Jersey City to Savannah, and express staff is technically transferred from the Adams to the Southern, there being joint service on all through shipments.

Crew Not Changed Here.
The Richmond agency, however, has nothing whatever to do with the movement of the money. The men who leave Jersey City go through to Florence, S. C., where another crew takes charge of the cars, running through with them to Jacksonville. One messenger is in charge of each express car, and he has one or two night men. This was pointed out last night. The messenger does not know what each safe contains. He is responsible, however, for its delivery at destination, and his responsibility ends when he turns it over to the next man at the transfer point, with the seal unbroken.

Agents of the company and Pinkerton detectives will make a careful investigation at all points at which the train stopped on its trip South. Below Richmond, the main points along the Atlantic Coast Line are Florence, S. C., Weldon, Rocky Mount, Fayetteville, Florence and Charleston. At many of these cities there is a very large transfer business. The robbery, it appears, was an inside job.

Envelopes Were Opened.
When the seals on the outside of the steel trunk showed that they had not been tampered with, the sealed envelopes in which the money was contained when it left New York were slit open. Messengers in charge of the car have been closely questioned, but they have been unable to throw any light on the robbery. Train crews arriving from the South over the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad last night said that the robbery had the whole service by the cars, and that detectives were following every possible clue in the hope of running down the thieves and recovering the money. It is expected that the special agents on their arrival here to-day will confer with the police, although the local end, if there is any local end, is being handled by Superintendent J. W. Erb, of the Pinkerton National Detective Agency.

Remarkable Christmas Present
Among the curious Christmas presents of this year will be one for a man of national reputation, which has been sent him in the making.

Wayland, a friend of the prominent gentleman requested the Burdette Press Clipping Bureau, of New York, to send him a full-page advertisement to take up every item high appeared concerning the man.

The clipping bureau people followed instructions, and now present the history of the year in the life of this especial man.

The history ends just after election, and the 20,442 newspaper items found required a copy from a three-line editorial mention of full-page advertisement. These have been mounted on 8,800 great sheets of Irish linen paper and bound into three massive volumes.

At the head of each item is the name and date of paper clipped from, this information having been put in with a book typewriter in full-page advertisement amount to 153,282.

In actual time, a very short record of which has been kept, the work has required thirty-four working days throughout the year, and has kept in employment during that time thirty people as readers, clippers, sorters, mounters and binders. Every newspaper clipping is represented.

This is merely a specimen of some of the unique orders which get into the Burdette Bureau, for the extent to which clippings are used by individuals and by business concerns seems to be remarkable.

There are many people in private as well as in public life who need press clippings. They don't know it, it might be well for them to look up this man Burdette, who is said to be so well known that a letter simply addressed "Burdette, New York" will reach him with no delay. (Advertisement.)

Georgia Democrat Says Government Should Not Go Into Banking Business.

FROM FRYING PAN INTO FIRE

"Through This Currency Bill Delivering Ourselves Into Hands of Roosevelt."

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Washington, D. C., September 12.—Through this currency bill, we are delivering ourselves into the hands of Roosevelt, declared Representative Hardwick, Georgia, today, in a speech in the House in opposition to the Glass-Owen currency bill.

Confessing himself old-fashioned in his ideas that the government should be committed to support of the money of the country which the money was based on note credits, Hardwick protested that under the Glass bill there could be no limit to the issue of money which would have the backing and support of the government.

"It seems to me that the underlying theory of this bill now presented to us for Democratic approval, is an asset currency, away beyond that which our gold basis may be able to meet in reserves," commented Hardwick. "The issue of special notes under this bill may reach a total of $100,000,000, and it is not to be reached that we are to have a not reach that. And we are told that for an elastic currency this bill provides that the issue may go far beyond the amount I have named. What is to be the security?"

"I am afraid that this bill will give a monopoly of the money of this country to a few, greater than the money monopoly now enjoyed by few banks. I do not think that money monopoly is confined to twelve banks, or those holding stock in that number of banks. This bill restricts the monopoly of money to twelve banks."

"We are jumping from the frying pan into the fire. Who can tell us the influences to control these twelve banks, or the influences lying back of the men who are to control the destinies of these twelve banks? I shall support the bill because it has been made a party measure. It offers an opportunity to warn the Democrats that they are violating all the teachings of the fathers of the party when they demand of us that we shall support a bill that puts the government in total charge of the banking business of the country. The government should not go into the banking business."

Under the existing law Bulkley insisted that bankers held too great powers to pass on redemptive paper, with the result that they could endanger the currency by extending credits when powerful depositors needed money beyond their discount credits. He combated the idea advanced by Hardwick, Georgia, that there would be no limit to the issue of money under the bill, and that it would be a contemplated expansion of currency at all times to meet demand. He said that this expansion would come through the reserve banks and would be distributed throughout the country instead of being concentrated in New York and other financial centers.

WILEY DISCOVERS LOOKER IN TARIFF
Wine Provision Shoots Pure Food Law Full of Holes, He Says.

Washington, September 12.—Dr. Harvey W. Wiley is up in arms against a "Joker," which was slipped into the tariff bill just before it was passed in the Senate, and which, he claims, is another case of "shooting holes in the pure food law." The "Joker" applies to the manufacture of wines, and provides that wines in which 20 per cent of water, sugar or grape must is used may go without tax, although the tariff bill imposes a tax of $1.10 a gallon on wines made solely from the juice of the grape. Dr. Wiley says: "From time to time, at occasional presents, some one takes advantage of an ambush to shoot the food laws full of holes. The last attempt is of such a particularly dangerous character as to warrant the most serious protest. In the proceedings of the Senate, page 491, when the new tariff bill was under consideration, Senator Stone offered an amendment, which was adopted, which reads as follows: 'Provided: That the tax herein imposed shall not be held to apply to pure wine made exclusively from fresh grapes, berries or other fruits to which no sugar, alcohol, or other foreign fermentation, sugar, pure, bottle, or condensed grape must, or water not exceeding in either case 20 per cent of the weight of such wine.'

What a travesty on language is to call such a concoction 'pure wine.' Even if the Congress of the United States thus defines a pure wine, it will of necessity overrule any provision of the existing law relating to wine. For illustration, it will be sufficient to take the case of sugar alone. Assuming that the wine would weigh 100 pounds, it might, under this provision contain twenty pounds of added sugar. If this sugar be added before or during fermentation, it will be converted into alcohol and make ten pounds of absolute alcohol. Ten pounds of absolute alcohol would make 100 pounds of an alcoholic liquor containing 12 per cent by volume of alcohol. Pure wines rarely contain so much. Thus all the alcohol, and more than the wine should contain, might be derived from the added sugar. Let the people who are interested in the purity of products immediately protest against this outrageous attempt to debauch the wines of this country. Some of them, especially those in Missouri, already have so bad a reputation that they have brought discredit upon the whole country. All of them under the above provision may legally
